LESSON FOR FEBRUARY 22

PETER'S DELIVERANCE FROM PRISON.

LESSON TEXT—Acts 12:1-19.

GOLDEN TEXT—The angel of the Lord encampeth round about them that fear him, and delivereth them.—Ps. 34:7.

ADDITIONAL STUDY—Gen. 37:12-36; Ex. 1:8-22; Matt. 14:3-12; Acts 4:1-3, 18; Heb. 11:32-38; 1 Pet. 5:8.

PRIMARY TOPIC—How an Angel Helped Peter.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Peter Delivered from Prison.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Prayer Helps.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Things Wrought by Prayer.

I. Peter's Imprisonment (vv. 1-4).

1. By whom (v. 1). Herod, the grandson of the wicked Herod who slew the innocent children at Bethlehem.

2. The reason (v. 3). It was to gain the favor of the Jews. Herod was not a Jew, and therefore knew that his success was dependent upon having the good will of the Jews. He did not particularly hate the Church, but loved popularity. Herod, for the sake of popularity, assumed a deep sympathy for degenerate Judaism. Since the Church had developed into a successful rival of Judaism—indeed was already displacing it—here was an opportunity to curry favor with the Jews by uprooting his hated foreb against it.

3. The result (v. 4). Peter was arrested, put into prison and guarded by four quaternions of soldiers. A quaternion is a guard of four soldiers on duty at the same time. Four quaternions mean that a special group was on duty each watch of the night. It was too common for two soldiers to be in the prison, one on each side of the prisoner, bound to his arms with chains (v. 6). The third one to watch outside the door and the fourth to be near the outside gate. Humanly speaking, it was impossible to escape. He—rest, they made sure the fatal mistake; they left out God.

II. The Church of God in Prayer (v. 5).

The Church was in a crisis; her ablest man was most grave. James, one of the pillars of the Church, was dead, and Peter, the most prominent of all, was in prison. In this Scripture study they did the wise thing; they betook themselves to prayer. There is nothing too hard for God. Theirs was a powerful prayer.

1. It was unto God, not unto men to be heard of men. This is a very common fault today. All true prayer is unto God.

2. It was united prayer. It was made by the Church. God hears the prayers of individuals, but there is peculiar power in the united prayer of God's people.

3. It was an intensely earnest prayer. It was more than unceasing prayer; it was in a yearning desire of the soul as it struck itself out toward God.

4. It was definite prayer. They specifically interceded for Peter. Their prayer was concentrated, definite and specific.

III. Peter Delivered by an Angel (vv. 6-11).

This occurred the night before Herod's plan to make a public display of him.

1. Peter sleeping (v. 6). The angel found Peter asleep. The Lord keeps in perfect peace those whose minds are stayed on him (Isa. 26:3). Again he gives his beloved sleep (Psalm 127:2).

2. Peter bound, the prison (vv. 7-10). The heavenly light shone in the prison. The angel smote Peter on the side—no chains fell off. Peter put on his clothes, passed by one guard after another, through the iron gate and into the city.

3. The effect upon Peter (v. 11). Although the event was so wonderful to Peter, and at first he thought it a vision, when he came to himself he was assured beyond scrupulousness of a deliverance. God had sent his angel and delivered him from Herod's wicked hands.

IV. Deceptious Unbelief (vv. 12-19).

1. The behavior of Peter and the Church (vv. 12-17). Peter went to the house of Mary and knocked. The knock was answered by Rhoda, who was so overjoyed on hearing Peter's voice that she forgot to open the gate and ran in and told them that Peter was at the gate.

2. The behavior of the soldiers (vv. 18, 19). There was great agitation among those over the soldiers disappeared. This was a serious matter since they were responsible for him. Not being able to account for the people, Herod commanded that they be put to death.

Be Not Too Sure.

Be not too positively sure in any matter; for things of this world abound so much in faults of unexpectedness that if it were in man's hands to see the issues, still he would not be certain to win the game.—Herbert.

Care of Today.

The cares of today are seldom those of tomorrow; and when we lie down at night we may safely say to most of our troubles, "To have done yesterday, and we shall see you no more."—Johnson.

Just What Did He Mean?

"Here, my dear husband," said a loving wife, "I have brought you a dear little silver pig for luck; it's a charm, you know, dear, to bring happiness to a house." "Ah, how kind of you, darling! For why should I need a little pig to bring me luck when I have you still?"

HUGHES SAYS AID TO FARMING LEGAL

Declares It Duty of Government to Protect Nation's Food Supply.

TAX EXEMPTION NECESSARY

Former Justice of U. S. Supreme Court Makes Powerful Argument Defending Constitutionality of Federal Farm Loan Act.

That the general welfare of the nation demands that the government shall encourage, and aid protect agriculture by whatever means and to whatever extent may be necessary to safeguard the nation's food supply, even though those means of aid and protection shall include the appropriation of government money and the extending of government credit, or even the lending of government moneys, was the contention of former Justice of the Supreme Court Charles Evans Hughes, who he appeared in the federal court at Kansas City as one of the attorneys to defend the constitutionality of the federal farm loan act.

Government's Duty to Aid Farmers.

Mr. Hughes pointed out that from the earliest history of taxation there has been a continuous acknowledgment of the principle of agricultural encouragement. He showed how, while congress did not attempt to operate farms and had not stepped into any state to legislate as to the use of rural lands, still congress had provided information, had disseminated instructions, had distributed seeds, and had supported in every manner which was deemed wise the great industry of the development of agriculture. He told how the government had come to protect agriculture from pests such as the gypsy moth, the brown-tail moth, the boll weevil, or even the grasshopper—all for the general welfare.

He showed how the government had provided for the distribution of seeds of new and useful varieties and how it had provided for the introduction and protection of insectiverous birds and how it had provided also for the establishment and maintenance of laboratories for experiments in agricultural chemistry. He told how later the bureau of animal husbandry was established to study and to disseminate information as to the proper breeding and as to the diseases of domestic animals. He told later of how the weather bureau was taken away from the army and put in charge of the department of agriculture so that the farmers and all interested in the production and distribution of food might have comprehensive information as to rainfall and weather prognostications.

Protecting Nation's Food Supply.

From all this he reasoned that the government recognized it as a proper function of government to encourage, aid and protect agriculture, and he held that it was the duty of the government to guard against any shortage in the food supply of the nation. Therefore, he said, when this great underlying industry stood in need of funds for operation or for development, it was clearly the duty of the government and clearly within its rightful powers to provide the means by which the necessary funds could be obtained at the disposal of those engaged in the cultivation of the soil.

"Here is a great activity," he said, "which has received financial support from the foundation of the government.

"Our position is that the federal government was competent in the application of money and investment of moneys in the stock of the federal land banks, to organize those banks and to invest moneys in their stock, to borrow money, and to loan money for these purposes, and to provide for the issue of bonds for the use purposes. Being competent to do this, the government could organize, take or accept as were necessary and convenient, and be could authorize them to borrow to do this thing for the government."

Bonds Had to Be Exempt.

Mr. Hughes contended that as congress could create the land banks incorporations and endue them with power to lend money and to issue bonds, the government could, of course, protect those corporations and their bonds issued by them from discrimination or hostile legislation. He said that "as the power to tax was the power to destroy," the government, of course, had the right to exempt the bonds from taxation. And to do this, he said, had particular force in this case, as the bonds of these banks had to be sold in competition with other tax-exempt securities and that with out their being tax exempt money would not be secured for the farmers at low rates of interest. To help the farmer the rate had to be low, and to get the low rate the bonds had to be exempt from taxes.

INTERESTING STORIES ABOUT HOME FOLKS.

Our Correspondents Relate the News of the County

The high price of flour does not seem to keep even poor people from buying it, a day laborer told me he had just paid $14.70 for a barrell and he could have bought a barrell of corn for $10 and feed his people for the money then he can on the flour, as it takes less to make corn bread good than it does flour.

In excavating to get a foundation for the new will around the Court House, one of the laborers found a Spanish Coin about the size of our silver dollar, the coin is in an excellent state of preservation and the letters are as plain on it as the day it was moulded, though it must have been lost more before the old brick wall was built. The piece bears date of 1820.

Mrs. B. F. Shoemaker has returned from a visit to her parents in the mountains of Southwest Virginia.

Most people have finished selling tobacco or only have a remnant on hand, but a few farmers have sold any at all Buyers will make a big profit on what they are buying now, or they will loose immensely on what they bought before.

There was something of a sensation created when over the phone office came the report that Stragone had come to the home of Mrs. Bullard, near Andersonville, and stolen a little orphan girl that she had. It is presumed the child's mother was a member of the party.

Miss Loulie Patteson, Secretary of the Buckingham Chapter of the Red Cross has been helping the soldier boys get their rights, she has also done good work among the poorer classes of people.

The March term of Circuit Court opens here on the 9th and our new Sheriff, W. T. Snoddy, has been busy serving papers and will serve as Sheriff at the March term for the first time. Just a word in passing about that good man ex Sheriff, Lewis Chumbley—Kind hearted, charitable, honest and popular wherever known. He could have succeeded himself as Sheriff if he had so desired. I think Mr. Snoddy is going to make a good officer.

The Legislature should increase the powers and the pay of Magistrates, rather than have a young lawyer acting as a kind of under judge in each County, better restore the old time county Courts at once.

There is over 500 inch a display of printers ink as merchants are paying for in advertising their wares in the daily papers. Cotton laurie should decline in price as much as tobacco and hog meat. If a man had to raise a hog on corn at $2 a bushel it will cost him at present prices and buy cotton cloth at 35 cents a yard he would have to go shirtless.

The progress now day to require you to register 10 days before voting in the primary stating on what political party they belong will materially reduce the number of those who vote in the primaries if the measure becomes law.

Printers must be scarce indeed if 9 a month will not secure the right man as printer on this paper. Time was when $100 would fire an excellent farm hand for 12 months.

RURAL SURVEY OF VITAL IMPORTANCE

Religious Statistics Are Secured From County To Be Used By Local Churches

HEARTY COOPERATION ASKED

Information To Be Gathered In Every Part Of The County According To Communities Will Have Large Significance

The rural survey department of the Interchurch World Movement has been organized to assemble information and analyze conditions from a religious standpoint in every county in the state, according to Dr. James H. Buchanan, Rural Survey Superintendent of the state of Virginia, with headquarters at 1020 Mutual Building, Richmond, Va.

In order for the churches of a community to carry on their work of evangelizing the territory in which they are located and to maximize their share towards the complete evangelization of the world, which is the ideal in every Christian heart, it is necessary that the actual conditions which exist in each county be discovered. Because of the vital importance of this work, the movement is calling upon the pastors of all denominations and others who are informed relative to religious conditions to render all the assistance possible towards the completion of the work.

This information, after being tabulated by experts, is taken back to the counties, where the several Protestant denominations with churches in the county co-operatively study it and decide on the county's church needs. Recommendations are made by the county churches of each denomination that so desires, to the denominational home mission, Sunday school and other boards so that these boards can co-operate intelligently and effectively with the local county church organizations.

The Interchurch World Movement is attempting to do its work on a democratic basis. It is neither dictating nor attempting to dictate to any church or denomination what shall be done. The denominations in each county must decide unanimously among themselves on any joint county program for church betterment before it is adopted or undertaken with the co-operation of the interchurch World Movement. The survey department is designed to help build up and meet the needs of the local churches through the local and county denominational interests.

An Interchurch World Movement survey of a county develops facts as to the county's geographical location and the general character of its agricultural, commercial and industrial life; its road system and means of intercommunication, public school system and other educational institutions, welfare and benevolent institutions, other organizations and individuals engaged in public service for the entire county.

Accompanying a general survey of a county is a more detailed survey of each community, a community being regarded as a unity of territory and population characterized by common economic and social experiences and interests.

The community survey designates the outline and location of the community on information acquired from storekeepers, bankers and other well informed persons. Territory not definitely included within the limits of any trade community is considered in connection with the communities to which it is contiguous and to which it is most closely related. Thus no area is omitted in the enumeration of population and other statistical information. The survey takes account of the community's economic conditions, such as natural resources, chief sources of income, soil, climate and market conditions, relations of farmers and business men, industrial data, etc. The social life and organizations of the community are covered in detail, together with other information to throw light on the state of the social mind.

The third link in the survey chain is the survey of each church in each community. This sets out the location, denomination, minister, date of organization, descriptive data as to buildings and equipment, membership, regular and special meetings and tabulated results therefrom, statistics as to area covered by the parish, number of families reached, parish problems and duties and to give a comprehensive vision of the parish, and supplemented by information as to the program of each organized for the church by the pastor, and the official board.

The triple surveys—county, community and church—assemble all the information that may be needed to aid the individual churches and denominations in working out their present problems and future programs of development, so that they may be enabled to find and apprehend the activities of each denomination may be transferred to productive fields.

The need of such a systematic study of church conditions is apparent by the results of investigation already made in some sections of the county. If the churches are to accomplish the greatest possible amount of good. The conditions found to exist in some quarters are rather startling. In one county in the South, for instance, there are 44 churches, of which 14 are dead and only 16 of which maintain Sunday schools.

Rain, hail, snow and ice have made quite a dearth of news in this neighborhood as well as elsewhere and it will be hard to get up news of interest for a letter, fearing however, that you may have space that will not be filled I will send a few lines

The farmers are very much troubled in getting their tobacco to market over 16 miles of rough muddy roads. The last two bright days have been an inspiration to them it seems, as several wagons are on the road, but I fear men and horses will suffer from the cold wind.

Our uniting merchant never fails to keep in stock of necessaries for the housewives and good things for the children and the school near the store. The teacher has not been home for some time, but she is a good hands I hear she has made some special friends who call on her often. The children and quite a nice valentine service and showed much talent in making hand-made ones—many very handsome bought ones.

There has been a little scare about the flu, but not a case near and not much sickness

Mr. Moore, of Carson's Mill has had quite a spell, but reported better and some of Mr. Carbun's bright children are much complaining. We should be thankful that it is as well as it is with us, but feel so anxious about our dear ones in cities.

Though we have had much bad weather our of our neighbors is getting 20 eggs a day and has right many young chickens.

Sorry you can't find a printer, times is good as is in. Success to it.

Dr. Rosser, of Rustburg, was called to this neighborhood last Saturday night to see Mr. Vince Tibbs, who is very ill; there is no chance for his recovery.

Dr. also called to see Mr. Ben Harvey the same night

Glad to state Mrs. Jack Tibbs is better.

The entire family of Mr. Helmer Wilkerson is down with flu.

Mrs. B. H. Williamson is on the sick list.

Mrs. Henry Harper is very sick at this writing.

Mrs. Sallie Cawthorn and Mr. and Mrs. Moody Martin were notified last week of the death of Meriam, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rosser Wooltridge. Our deepest sympathy is extended them in their bereavement.

Artichokes

I feel like I ought to tell the readers of the Times-Virginian something about Artichokes—it may help someone. It is one of the best foods for hogs and milch cows I have tried. For milch cows they are fine, equal to bran. Much cow that have Artichokes as a part of the daily rations will give more milk and butter and they give it no flavor like turnips and other roots we some times feed. For hogs they are less expensive as you le. the hogs do the harvesting and they will fatten and do well on them until the ground freezes. They will keep perfectly in the ground all winter. It is a good plan to dig a supply to feed when the ground is frozen.

They will grow on most any land that is well drained; the better the soil the larger the yields. I planted my first crop March, 1919 on moderately thin land with no fertilizer and got 250 bushels to acre. I think every farmer in the county who raises hogs and keeps cows should plant one or two acres Cultivate them two or three times as you do corn. The biggest job is the digging and storling.

It requires about 4 bushels seed for an acre

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Catarrhal Deafness and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of Deafness are caused by Catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the blood surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts through on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists, 75c.
